

RED PLAYTESTING PROGRAM INFORMATION

Hey! Thank you for wanting to participate in our testing program!

What it's about

As part of the program, we may make available for testing elements of our games and services at various stages of development or other related resources (e.g. drafts of promotional materials). Your impressions and feedback can help us create products that best meet the needs of gamers. Participation in the program is voluntary and unpaid.

Conditions of participation

To take part in the program you must:

1. be at least 16 years old (if you are under 18, we additionally need the consent of your parent or legal representative),
2. have an active CDPR account,
3. register and accept the required documents.

Registration

All you need to do to apply for the program is:

1. log in to your CDPR account,
2. fill out and send us a form about who you are and how you play video games,

When you follow these steps, we will register you in our database of testers, along with the answers you provided in the form.

Invitation

If in the future we organize a test for which we need people with a similar profile of interests (we will assess it based on your answers in the form), we may contact you and invite you to participate in the test.

We do not guarantee that you will receive an invitation. Each time we will decide on our own who we will invite to a given test.

In order to participate in the test, you will have to accept additional documents, in particular regarding confidentiality. We will explain everything to you at the right moment to allow you to make the final decision.

The test

The course of the test will depend on what we are investigating. Basically:

- we will invite you to our test location,
- we will discuss the course of the test, answer your questions and sign the necessary documents,
- you will familiarize yourself with specific materials or perform one or more test tasks,
- during this time, we will record various parameters related to your activities, e.g.:
 - a person from RED can ask you questions and take notes,
 - in some tests, with your consent, special equipment will check your pulse, eye movements or other physical factors to assess how you react to various events, what you focus your eyes on, etc.,
 - in some tests, with your consent, special software will examine what you do on the test equipment, e.g. where you click, what buttons you press, what options you select, etc.,
 - we can record the course of the test in audio and video format.
- Finally, we will talk about your impressions of the test.

Resignation

If you decide that you no longer wish to participate in the program, you may opt out at any time. Just send an email to playtest@cdprojektred.com.
